The Russian and Japanese Envoys Decide About Corean Article.

SOME CHANGES MADE.

Section as Adopted is Not in the Language Used by Representatives of Mikado.

Mr. Witte had insisted that Japan's purpose was to make a dependency of Corea, and he wanted the language of the article to conform to Japan's real intentions. Mr. Witte was prepared from the beginning to accept the article, his only objection being as to the form. He wanted the language at least to show that Japan intended a protectorate over Corea.

(Special to The Evening World.)
AMERICAN LEAGUE GROUNDS Aug. 14.—Strengthened by a new pitober, who looked pretty good and keen for victory after that Saturday's defeat, the Highlanders again attacked Detroit this afternoon before a crowd of 2,800. The new twirler is named Payne.

Being recommended by Chesbro gave him a good start at least. One of his fast shoots glanced from Kleinow's glove, hitting a fan, who swore the newcomer was well named.

He is a southpaw and claims he was not right in the other trial. With these additions Grift had half a bench full of pitchers, but he did not care to experiment.
